

Thank you to the parents that attended the Zoom presentation on the RSE teaching at Sutton C of E Primary. We were pleased to offer the opportunity to share how it is taught and support you with answering questions and explaining the coverage more fully. Below is information that was discussed, as well as the 'RSE resources' list.

We are very aware that the RSE we deliver in school is only a small part of children's learning about their bodies, keeping safe, emotions, relationships, sexual behaviour, sexuality, sexual health and themselves. The majority of children's learning in this area takes place with you at home.

Why should parents/carers talk to their children about relationships, bodies and sex?

- Children tell us they want their parents/carers to be the first ones to talk to them about puberty, sex and relationships.
- If families start talking to their children about bodies, puberty, sex and relationships, they are less likely to get ideas that worry or confuse them and they learn that it's alright to talk about these things at home and to ask for help if they need it.
- Children learn most about values and relationships from family experiences. Close, loving relationships are the best way of showing a young person how your family 'does things' based on your values, culture, faith and beliefs.
- If families talk about relationships, bodies and sex openly and honestly, young people are:
  - more likely to be able to keep themselves safe from abuse
  - more prepared for puberty and the changes they will experience
  - more likely to delay having sex for the first time
  - more likely to avoid non-consensual or unwanted sexual activity
  - more likely to use contraception if they do have sex
  - less likely to have an unplanned pregnancy or to get a sexually transmitted infection.

How can I talk to my child about sex and relationships?

- Read a book, leaflet or watch a video with your child.
- Talk while you're doing something else like washing up or driving.
- Enjoy talking. Laugh with each other, not at each other – it can reduce embarrassment and stress.
- Listen rather than judge. Ask them what they think.
- Answer questions and don't be afraid to say you don't know.
- Have a phrase ready for awkward moments – 'That's a good question. Let's talk about it when we get home.'
- Always respond – don't change the subject. Give the message it's important to talk about sex and relationships.
- If it feels too personal, talk about people in books, films or soaps.
